DISTRESSING CALAMITY AT HOBOKEN.

Destruction of the Harmonia Hotel by Fire-Suffocation of One of the Proprietors and his Three Daughters-Coroner's Inquest, &c., &c.

One of the most distressing occurrences we have had to record for some time transpired about three o'clock yesterday morning, in the quiet city of Hoboken, in the destruction of the well known Harmonia Hotel, on Hudson street, and the suffocation of Mr. Charles Baese, the senior proprietor, and three of his daughters, Anna, Theodora, Clara and Sophia. It appears from the evidence of Ferdinand Kapp, the junior partner, before the Coroner's jury, that an unusually hot fire was kept burning through out the day in the basement, and it is supposed to have ignited a pile of balroom benches and tables, and so communicated fire to the building. The bodies were conveyed to an unoccupied building in the rear of Police Justice Crane's, on Washington street, where they now lie in state.

Mr. Baese is unmarried, and his nervous system is so shocked that he is unable to converse with any one. His eldest daughter, Miss Mary Baese, in jumping from her bedroom window to the piazza on the second floor came in contact with a projecting window shutter and was thrown against the window, breaking the glass and lacerating her face, neck, arms and legs in a shocking manner. They are now lying at the hospitable residence of John W. Harrington, No. 71 Hudson terrace, under medical treatment.

The building is two stories and a half high, with basement, built of brick, and has lately been improved by joining a brick building on the rear, covering the remainder of the lot. The basement was used as an eating apartment for the family of the proprietor, and the rear portion as a general kitchen. The second story was used as a ballroom, and the third story as a reading room. The fire broke out in the front building as a bar and reading room, and in the rear as a ballroom. The second floor front was occupied by the Union Chess Club and the Hudson River Club, and the third story as a reading room. By Mr. Board.—The custom, with us has been to keep the door on the inside of the hotel open at night.

By the Coroner.—When I landed upon the piazza I found John W. Harrington there, gave the information that there were people in the upper part of the house, and he left me to go out; the females were ironing on that day; there was a pile of tables and benches about three feet from the piazza; think these caught fire from the heat of the stove.

By Mr. Board.—The tables and benches had been piled up since last winter. By the Coroner.—The carpenter employed in the hotel was not at work at the lower part of the building, but on the roof.

By Mr. Board.—The third witness. Being duly sworn, deposed and said—Resided at 77 Hudson street, adjoining the hotel; was awakened about three o'clock Friday morning by hearing Miss Mary Baese crying at the top of her voice, "For God's sake, save me!" rushed on my front balcony; saw smoke issuing in great volumes from the second and third story windows; there I saw a green and white striped flag, and a red flag, and a blue flag; could not see the position of affairs; told Mr. Baese to leap out of the window upon the balcony; would not have done so had I known how matters stood; she carried out my advice, but in her descent struck a projecting window shutter, and fell into the window of the second story.

By Mr. Board.—I have no idea as to the origin of the fire. By the Coroner.—I mustered my strength, and succeeded in pulling down the screen; leaped over upon the hotel balcony, and raising Mary in my arms, bore her to my apartment; she begged me to save her from the flames; I procured a fire ladder from a hook and ladder company, and raised it up to the piazza, and then set it up against the building; not knowing the room occupied by Mr. Baese and children, I could not venture to find them.

ADDITIONAL FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Europa's Mail.

The Europa mails brought by the Europa reached this city from Boston at a late hour last night. The contents of the foreign papers received are of very little importance.

Since the Atlas in Paris that capital has become very quiet and dull. This is a natural reaction of the intense excitement which attended the war.

The reduction of the French army does not seem to amount to much, but seems to be confined to the discharge of men whose term of service expires and of invalids, and may be only a ploy to satisfy England.

Mr. Lever has sent in to the directors a final proposal. He offers to charter the Great Eastern for $20,000 cash down, to coal the ship both ways, and to pay the port charges on both sides the Atlantic.

The boiler of the French gunboat Albatre, stationed in the Adriatic, exploded a day or two ago. Seven or eight men were killed or wounded, but the rest of the crew were saved, she being close to the shore.

Some idea may be formed of the enormous sums of money which are sunk in the purchase of pictures by the wealthy classes in England, from the fact that the collection of the late Lord Northwick has produced no less than $50,000. The sale, which extended over eighteen days, terminated on Wednesday, and was attended by dealers and all parts of the world. Some of the pictures must appear fabulous to the uninitiated. The owners of this collection spent a life in bringing it together, and now it will be distributed far and wide.

Suicide of a New Yorker.

The English papers received by the Europa report that Mr. Horsey Stowell, Jr., of the firm of Stowell, Stowell & Co., of New York, committed suicide at Manchester, August 22, by hanging himself.

The Zurich Conference.

The fate of Italy is yet a matter of doubt, and there may be a considerable lapse of time before it will be definitely known. A Berlin account of August 23 says:—

Three weeks ago it was believed here that the Conference of Zurich would be of short duration, and take place in the latter part of the month. Some of the papers might be two or three sittings for decency's sake to protocol and sign foregone conclusions, and a couple of days to discuss the subject of a boundary between the neutrals and the belligerents, and the actual theatre of war are concerned.

By the remodelling of Italy is a matter in which all the accounts from many quarters are in agreement. The neutrals who had been indifferent to the war must be brought to the point of view as to the position of the belligerents and the actual theatre of war are concerned.

Court of General Sessions.

Before Judge Russell.

Sept. 9.—Soon after the opening of the court this morning, the City Judge rendered the following interesting decision on a motion to quash an indictment against Dennis Campbell, for the alleged larceny of a valuable Newfoundland dog—

The People vs. Dennis Campbell.—The defendant was indicted at the last March term of the Court for grand larceny, in stealing (as averred) one dog of the value of $50, and one collar, of the value of $1, the property of Jeronimus S. Cuddehill. The defendant to the indictment was returned before me at the last July term, on the ground that the stealing of a dog was not an offence by the laws of this State. Accompanying the indictment was a stipulation that the defendant was alleging that the dog in the indictment was in fact a thief of the dog, and that the defendant, knowing it to be such, feloniously stole and carried it away, and that the averment in the indictment as to the theft of the dog was deemed to have been omitted. The object was to present the question as to whether a dog is property so as to be the subject of larceny, and if so, whether the dog in the indictment was in fact a thief of the dog, and that the averment in the indictment as to the theft of the dog was deemed to have been omitted.
